

Sandra L. Jensen

Indianapolis, Indiana

- Attorney
- Chief Administrative Law Judge, Indiana Natural Resources Commission

Travel: Statewide

Areas of Particular Interest:

- Environmental
- Natural Resources
- Administrative Law
- Property Issues, Boundary Disputes, Land Use
- Civil Rights
- Sexual Harassment

Additional Information:

Sandra L. Jensen has been an attorney licensed in Indiana since 1990, when she earned her J.D. from IU School of Law-Indianapolis. Jensen's legal career began as a Deputy Prosecuting Attorney in Marion County Indiana from 1990 to 1992 and in Clay County Indiana from 1992 to 1995. After a short time in private practice, Jensen served as a supervising attorney for the Indiana Civil Rights Commission until approximately 2000 since which time she has devoted her career to environmental and natural resources law.

Jensen served as the Director of Criminal Investigations for the Indiana Department of Environmental Management for 4 years where she served as a supervisor of the office's activities but also actively participated in investigations. In this position she attended the Environmental Protection Agency's Advanced Environmental Crimes Investigation Training at the Federal Training Center in Glynnco, Georgia. In 2014, Jensen was promoted to serve as the Chief Administrative Law Judge for the Indiana Natural Resources Commission where she had previously served as an administrative law judge for 10 years. For the Natural Resources Commission Jensen presides over cases involving diverse subjects including, coal mining and reclamation, oil and gas production, forestry matters, floodway issues, and topics associated with Indiana's public freshwater lakes. Jensen is a registered mediator and serves as the Chair of the Indiana Shared Neutrals Program. She is also a member of the Indiana State Bar Association and presently serves as the President of the Indiana Chapter of the National Association of Administrative Law Judges.